

TO HALT GOUGING BY COLD STORAGE PLAN

Senate Committee Will Revive
Bill Aimed at Many Hoarding Profiteers.

HITS AT MONOPOLISTS TOO

Another Measure Compels
Staying of Wholesale Price on Each Pair of Shoes.

Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD.
WASHINGTON, April 23.—In an effort to reduce the cost of living, establish more effective control of visible food supplies and protect the public health, the Senate Antitrust Committee has voted to revive the cold storage bill. During the hearing opponents of the measure protested that it would tend to make cold storage more expensive and ultimately increase living costs. The committee decided otherwise. Further testimony showed that cold storage is used as a means of hoarding and monopoly, as well as to preserve perishables.

The bill provides that articles in storage thirty days or more be labeled when taken out with the date they went in and were taken out, and branded as from cold storage. Articles stored over twelve months may not be sold except for export to countries whose laws would not be violated thereby. Records of all articles stored, their quantity, time stored, etc., and of the cold storage warehouse must be furnished to the Secretary of Agriculture on demand. Penalties of a year in prison or $1,000 fine or both are provided.

Fresh fruits and vegetables must not be subject to the act but use their appearance will indicate age and deterioration; but meats, fish, poultry, game, butter and eggs come under it. It is required that imported eggs must be stamped, as to every egg, with date of shipment from the foreign country and the country's name. This is almost especially against imports from China. Every pair of shoes offered for sale must be plainly stamped on it (the price the retailer paid, if the Senate passes the bill which Senator McNary (Ind.) will introduce to-morrow. This measure was strongly recommended by T. M. Robertson, export director of the Federal Trade Commission. If a pair of shoes is offered to a customer for $18 which he can see cost

Committee to Ask Firms to Of-

Price, Is Report.

NEW HOPES for a settlement to-day of the Stutz stock corner was held out yesterday when Charles A. Morse, chairman of the protective committee, issued a call for a meeting of the representatives of all the fifty-eight houses short of the stock at 9 o'clock this morning in the office of Rosenberg & Hall, counsel for the committee. It was said that the committee in that meeting would ask representatives of those houses for authority to settle their commitments at $520 a share, which Ryan was named recently by Allan A. Ryan in conference with a representative of the committee. Whether or not Ryan will accept that price now, even should the shorts agree to settle at that figure, was considered doubtful in some quarters last night. Ryan said yesterday that he would buy in the shorts at the opening of stock trading this morning and if they should wish to do any business with him they would have to do it before 9 o'clock, when the market will open.

Brooklyn Jury Accuses Three Men Recently Arrested.

Indictments charging profiteering were found by the Federal Grand Jury in Brooklyn against Armour & Co., Swift & Co. and Wilson & Co., Chicago meat packers, and their local representatives, Harry G. Mills, William Cleary and Louis Joseph. There are four counts against the Swift concern, three against Armour and one against Wilson.

The three agents, who were arrested recently by the "Flying Squadron" of the Department of Justice, were arraigned before Federal Judge Garvin and their bail bonds continued. Maximum penalty on conviction is two years imprisonment and $5,000 fine. The trials will begin on May 10.

you have to do is to act as mediators between me and the fifty-eight members. Had you explained this to me at the beginning of our negotiations, I can assure you that much of your time and mine would not have been wasted. I propose to proceed with the buying in on Saturday morning, as your counsel has already been notified. I have no further proposition to make."

Ryan's statement that the committee had no authority to act was characterized as incorrect in a letter sent by Morse to Ryan. "You are fully aware," that letter said, "that the committee has complete authority to submit the matter to mediators or arbitrators and accept their decision as final and that that authority was procured by the committee at a meeting specially called after you had agreed to such a course." In his letter Morse explained that Ryan's offer, made "informally" to a member of the protective committee, had been withdrawn by Ryan in a telephone conversation with the man to whom it was made. Later Morse issued the following statement:

"On Wednesday, in a confidential conversation, Mr. Ryan suggested to Col. J. W. Prentiss of the committee, a settlement price. To-day at noon, for the first time, Mr. Ryan permitted Col. Prentiss to state publicly what that price had been. Thereupon the committee immediately arranged for a meeting to be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the office of the committee's counsel. While Mr. Ryan declares that he is not now making any offer, the committee, which is acting solely in a representative capacity, deems it its duty to present the situation exactly as it stands to the interested parties. This will be done Saturday morning."

Another Ryan Broadside.

Ryan turned his typewritten broadside against another quarter yesterday, when he issued a lengthy statement, accusing Dominick & Dominick, a New York Stock Exchange firm, of endeavoring to embarrass him and his friends, who are holders of Stutz stock. That firm, he said in his statement, "has seen fit to demand of one of my friends and fellow Stutz stockholders that he take up his account which they have had for some five years." That action, he claims, was taken "for no other conceivable purpose than to embarrass me and cripple me through the embarrassment of my friend and fellow Stutz stockholders." Dominick & Dominick, he said, had been long requested by delivering to us other securities which he named. This morning we received instructions to transfer his account to Allen A. Ryan & Co., with which instructions we immediately complied. Neither the firm of Dominick & Dominick nor any of its members are or ever have been long or short of Stutz stock for their own account. The firm is short of 399 shares of Stutz stock for the account of an out-of-town broker's firm, who, in turn, is short for the account of one of its customers. The statement that any request for substitution made by us was made for the purpose of embarrassing either Mr. Ryan or one of our customers is untrue."

Furor to Manage Delmonico's.

of begging those whose defaulted contracts I hold to accept my proffer of settlement or make counter haggling propositions. I hope I have made it clear to them that I do not intend to submit to such haggling any longer.

"It is, however, a curious coincidence that just at this time every possible effort is being made to embarrass me, and my friends who are holders of Stutz stock. Only to-day a Stock Exchange firm which is short of Stutz stock and which has a member on the board of governors, to wit, Dominick & Dominick, has seen fit to demand of one of my friend and fellow Stutz stockholders that he take up his account, which they have had for some five years and from which they have had revenue of many thousands of dollars a year, but which account, though amply secured for many times the amount of Stutz stock in it. This account is so well secured that it would ordinarily be deemed a privilege for a New York Stock Exchange house to have it on its books, and has without its present condition for a long time past. And yet, despite these indisputable facts, the account is called for no other conceivable purpose than to embarrass me and cripple me through the embarrassment of my friend and fellow Stutz stockholders."

"Prepares Has Failed."

"But fortunately again, the purpose has failed of accomplishment. My friend was quite able to help himself and if he had not been, I should have been not only able to step in for him but delighted to do so. I am glad to see him and to make it clear to this Stock Exchange firm and all other Stock Exchange firms that no such performance can weaken my determination not to diminish my resources."

Dominick & Dominick applied to the Ryan charges as follows: "One of our customers whose account contained a large amount of Stutz stock was requested by us to substitute other securities for the Stutz in his account. We understood that it was entirely conventional for him to make the substitution requested by delivering to us other securities which he named. This morning we received instructions to transfer his account to Allen A. Ryan & Co., with which instructions we immediately complied. Neither the firm of Dominick & Dominick nor any of its members are or ever have been long or short of Stutz stock for their own account. The firm is short of 399 shares of Stutz stock for the account of an out-of-town broker's firm, who, in turn, is short for the account of one of its customers. The statement that any request for substitution made by us was made for the purpose of embarrassing either Mr. Ryan or one of our customers is untrue."
